SPECIAL NOTE: QO has permanently closed its PO Box and is now an exclusively online fan club!

Heyla, Misty fans!

We hope this newsletter finds you well. We'd like to start with giving a big shout out to all the real-world Healers who are helping to battle COVID-19. Please stay safe!

ARTISTS! We are in desperate need of contributions for our newsletter. So while all of us are in lockdown, please get out your pencils, charcoal, pens, crayons, paint or anything else and draw something for us. Or create a costume or model horse or anything you please and send us a picture of it. Did you do a piece of art for your persona? Do you still have it? Send us a picture!

One thing this lockdown is good for is catching up on reading Misty's books. Please send us reviews to publish in the newsletter. We love to hear from you! (Danya's note: I know Misty writes faster than I can read, so I'd love to know which books are your favorites so I can decide which one to tackle next.)

Writers, take this opportunity to spin your tales and send them to our zines. (Golden Grove in particular is good at publishing Queen's Own material.) We'd love to read you stories.

Those of you who can sew, please consider making non-medical masks and either selling or giving them to people who don't have them. There are several patterns available online. I'm still awaiting the arrival of two that were made for me by someone in the Society for Creative Anachronisms (SCA). We want to protect as many people as possible.

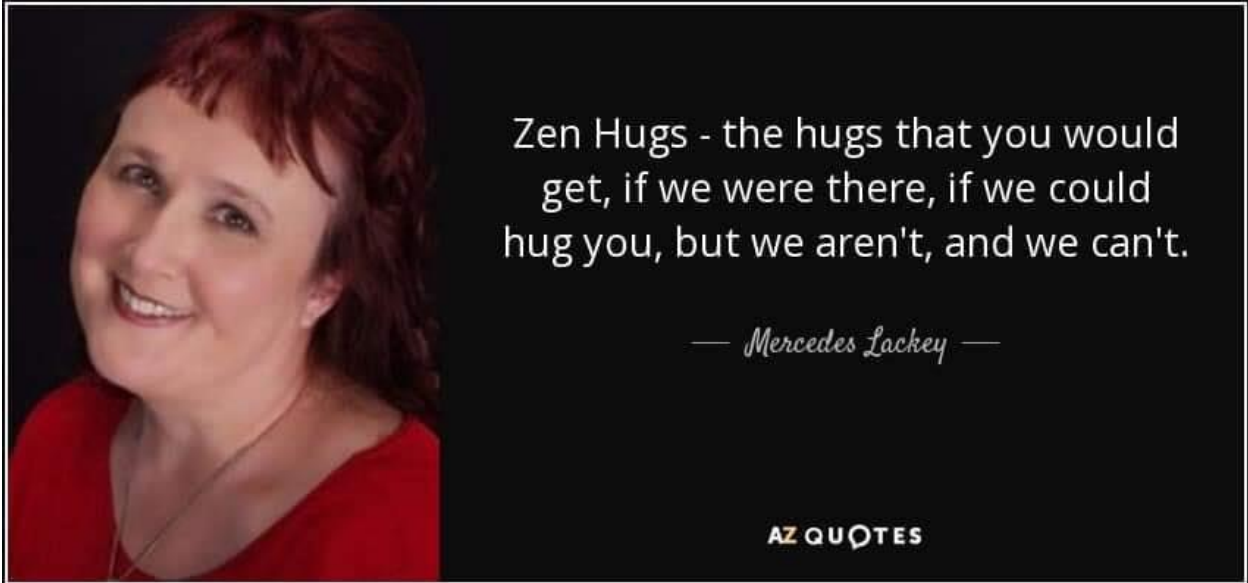

If you have any other ideas of things people can do while in lockdown, please send them to us or post them yourself on the Queen's Own Chat List on Facebook.

You are an amazing bunch of creative folk. We love you all and wish you well!

Zhai'helleva,

Herald-Mage Adept Danya Winterborn

An Open Note of Thanks for Misty:

I've decided I need to start doing something positive in this chaotic world right now. One of those things I want to do is send authors who've had a profound influence on me some kind of thank you.

I found Misty's books in Junior High. I was a kid who'd been reading Tamora Pierce but was out of books and who'd only found Piers Anthony and McCaffrey to read in the interim and wasn't finding the right connection. I found Magic's Promise on the shelf and read through it and was instantly absorbed . . . and very confused (starting on the middle book of a trilogy is never a great way to understand things). Before I found the rest of the Vanyel series I found Talia's stories and saw pieces of myself in her. And then Vanyel's books, where the bullying and isolation I felt found a match. Then Tarma and Kethry by high school and college where I recognized the hunger in me to see strong female characters in epic fantasy.

It was in college that Misty's work gave me two of the biggest gifts of my life. The first was to present a character whose identity was centered around not being sexual but being asexual. It was the very first time I'd seen or considered a character like that and it was incredibly powerful--even if it would take me another 20 years to recognize my own identity fully. I'm asexual, but all I knew then was that Tarma gave me permission to think about that possibility. Tarma was my first hint that I wasn't just broken.

The second gift was a friend. We met on campus in writing class, but ultimately discovered we were destined to be friends when she caught me reading The Black Gryphon on a stone fence by her dorm. She was excited to know the book was out. Turns out we were both readers of Misty, though she'd been reading her Diana Tregarde series, something I hadn't read yet. Angel --that was her name--would come over and borrow books from my dorm room, and I would in turn borrow books from her. I would learn how deeply she had absorbed some of Misty's story ideologies, and how much they were a part of her own identity. She was my first real friend at school, a mercurial bisexual pagan girl from New Mexico who somehow liked hanging out with the quiet Catholic girl from Long Island who 'didn't like to date'.

She made me believe in myself when all the brain weasels tried to tell me I was worthless. She and I had mock swordfights on campus, traded filk songs, talked about writing and our lives. I didn't know it then, but I suffered from anxiety spirals that left me feeling utterly disconnected from everyone--and she wouldn't let me stay there. There was one scene from my memory--I was in the cafeteria feeling utterly crushed and alone amid the noise and bustle. Nobody noticed or cared. And then she swooped in with "guerilla hugs" for me and told me I was looking so despondent she was intent on cheering me up. She was a song that filled my heart and answered a piece of myself and made me believe for the first time in my life that the girl who had been bullied and ostracized in high school might just have a chance at getting this friendship thing right.

I had one glorious year at school with her. We promised to write and call over the summer and did but infrequently. And I was crushed when the new school year began to find she couldn't come back to college. Too much money--her father wanted her to go local. And then . . . I found out in October she'd taken her own life. It shattered me in a way nothing else has or will. I mourned. I blamed myself. And finally, I helped another girl go through her items in storage on campus to send things back home. But I kept a few of her writing pieces, a chewed pencil, a recipe for bread she'd written by hand. She's never quite left my life since, and every time I read Misty's work, it's like she's reading over my shoulder.

As sorrowful as her loss has been, and still is despite the 24 years since, I'm grateful for the gift of her memory, of that year. I like to think she'd be proud of the life I've made. I'm a mom, and a librarian and still a reader. And I will always treasure those past moments and all the books we shared.

So, Misty, thank you for being part of the blueprint of my life, and giving me these gifts to keep.

Story Prompt:

My partner lipped at my sleeve and licked the back of my hand as I scrubbed at her neck with my brush. I loved the longer warmer days of spring, but not the shedding.

As always, if you would like any story published you can submit it to Golden Grove sn.keeper@yahoo.com with Golden Grove in the subject line.

--Herald Nalei Rayskeline

[If any other fanzine editors would like to send us story prompts, we'd be happy to publish them!]

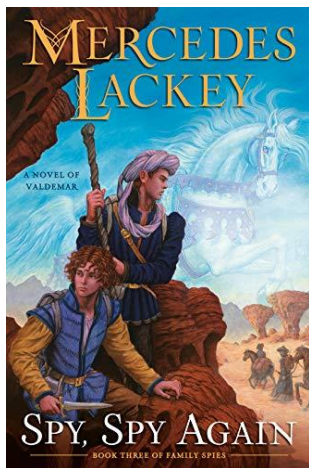

Contest Announcement

Reminder: We are now accepting submissions for the ongoing Queen's Own Contests. We will do a drawing in the January Newsletter, the winner of the contest will receive one of the randomly selected items below. Each submission must be Valdemar related. Submission includes, Personas, Artwork, Stories, Poetry, Articles, Book Reviews, Monthly RPs and Cosplays. If it is Valdemar related it will count for a submission. All submissions will be shared in future newsletters, in the case of stories they will be sent on to the zines which are needing submissions. Winner to be determined by the roll of a 10-sided die, which will cause the winner to be determined randomly as we do not want to be in the business of trying to determine better between apples and oranges. The Prize of the drawing will also be determined randomly by die roll. Please send in your submissions via email (queensownnewsletter@gmail.com). Good Luck my friends!

Publication News:

Spy, Spy Again (Valdemar: Family Spies), release date June 9, 2020, and is available for preorder.

Please send us reviews of any of Misty's works, old or new. We love to hear from you!

Book Review:

We do not have a book review to include this month. Please let us know what you are reading, with a short no spoiler summary and what you liked or didn't like about it!

Member News:

Editors and Chapter Presidents, please send us updated information if you have it.

Local chapters:

The Canada Chapter is starting back up! I hope to have their updated information in the next newsletter. Who else is still active and who is not?

- ❑ Arrows OnLine: Contact: Adept Grayfeather k'Varis (Kristi Reed). E-mail: DragonMamaK@aol.com. Arrows OnLine is the AOL chapter of QO. Chats will be held the first and third Wednesdays of each month from 8-10 PM ET. Topics will be posted prior to chat, hopefully as soon as a month in advance for book discussions. Although we have the scheduled chat, the Companion's Grove is open 24/7, and anyone can come in for informal chat. As far as instructions on how to get there . . . there are lots of hoops to jump through now. Go to the books community, find the message board link, then find the "Author AZ" message board, and find your way to the Mercedes Lackey boards from there. She's no longer a keyword, but hopefully with more traffic in the future that will change. If you don't want to jump through hoops, you can e-mail me directly, and I'll give you the links. The links to the chatroom will be on my "signature" on the boards.
- ❑ Friends of the Pelagirs: Contact: Morghan Savistr'i. Website: <http://www.freewebs.com/unchainedatlantic/index.htm>. E-mail: elfchilde@gmail.com. Under new care! Friends of the Pelagirs, the Mid Atlantic Chapter of Queens Own, is looking for new members, co-moderators for Lists and Subgroups, as well as those who would like to attend Writers groups in their area! Please e-mail Morghan Savistr'i at elfchilde@gmail.com or visit our new site <http://www.freewebs.com/unchainedatlantic/index.htm> for more information! We look forward to growing with you!
- ❑ Heartland Arrows: Contact: Earthshower k'Valdemar. Website: <http://www.angelfire.com/falcon2/heartlandarrows>. E-mail: thewrathofyourmom@hotmail.com.

CALLING ALL VALDEMAR FANS! CALLING ALL VALDEMAR FANS!

Heartland Arrows IS BACK!!!! If you live in or around Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, or Illinois and want to be an art of this great chapter of Queen's Own, please contact Earthshower kValdemar at thewrathofyourmom@hotmail.com.

- Queen's Own (Valdemar Fan Club): Here's the Facebook page: <https://www.facebook.com/groups/2202088363/> (This is one of our more active chapters at the moment. Let us know if you see any posts from Misty. "Like" Misty's Facebook page while you're at it!)
- Sapphire and White: Contact: Ronald Glaser. E-mail: luckystar@abe.midco.net. We accept members from all over the United States, but we technically cover the Great Lakes region, including South Dakota, North Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa. Heyla there, everyone! Sapphire and White is looking for people who are interested in Mercedes Lackey and her works such as the Valdemar series and the many other books that she has written. We accept both members and non-members of QO. You can contact me for more info at luckystar@abe.midco.net. I hope to have a chat list and maybe a fanzine going soon, but I am looking for submissions for that when it gets up and running.
- Valdemar Estate Waystation: Contact: Herald Lily. Website: <http://valdemarwaystation.iwarp.com/index.html>. E-mail: kalendral_tarma@hotmail.com. Valdemar Estate Waystation has expanded. Due to low numbers of anything in Perth, it is also now the largest cosplay club in Perth We have cosdays every month and Ramen Nite is the first Thursday of the month. We now cover 3 sections. Valdemar, Horses, Costuming/anime. Online forum is open to all! (come on, we even have a member from Golden Grove...:hugs to you:) Find us at <http://vewaystation.proboards100.com/index.cgi>. There are recent pics of Misty and Larry and some dodgy fun so don't be shy . . . your mothers weren't and pay us a visit!
- The Vanyel Fan Club: Contact: Herald Bastian. Website: <http://www.dragonlordsnet.com/vfcindex.htm>. E-mail: Herald_Bastian@hotmail.com. The Vanyel Fan Club is a chapter of QO that started out as an independent fan organization. The chapter is devoted to fans of Herald-Mage Vanyel Ashkevron from The Last Herald-Mage Trilogy by Mercedes Lackey.

Zines and Newsletters:

Fanfiction can now be published long as you designate that you are doing so under a Creative Commons license. You may not make any money off your fiction and you may NOT write a Valdemar novel.

Here are the QO fanzines and newsletters that we know about. Is anyone else still publishing?

- Children of Velgarth: Editor: Kendra Hosseini, aka Healer Adept Moonstar; E-mail: Queensownnewsletter@gmail.com. I publish new and old personae, even previously published persona if asked by members in this new, official QO zine. I will only accept what was sent in for your persona to Queen's Own to be recognized. Any fan fiction written later should be sent to one of the other zines who need it to keep their zines going. This fanzine will be published periodically when it reaches 80 pages or so. Zines will be available by e-mail only, and completely free. The zines will be in PDF format, which use adobe reader available for free from the Adobe website. We have the first 6 vols. available!
- Golden Grove Volume 3, Issue 4 is now available! Golden Grove is a digital publication and is sent out via e-mail. Contact me if you'd like a copy. For new submissions and subscriptions to Golden Grove please e-mail sn.keeper@yahoo.com. To submit stories, you have written from the story prompt given above, send them to Golden Grove sn.keeper@yahoo.com with Golden Grove in the subject line.

If anyone has old issues of Golden Grove and can get them to me, you can contact me at the email above. If you can scan them and get me digital copies that would be great, if not and you are willing to part with your copies, I'm willing to pay postage.

- Herald's Companion: Editor: Karen Bertke, 5694 Scarborough Dr., Cincinnati, OH 45238. If anyone has friends stationed overseas for the war, let us know and we'll send them a feezil mascot (to make anything feezilable). E-mail: submission instructions:
 - 1) Subject line must read "For Karen." (Anything else will be erased as a potential virus hazard.)

- 2) Do not use strange fonts, which my computer will not recognize.
- 3) E-mail: it to gbertke@fuse.net. (This is my father's e-mail address. Use it for submissions for Herald's Companion only.)
- Sapphire and White: Editor: Ronald Glaser, 1202 S. 2nd St., Aberdeen, SD, 57401. E-mail: luckystar@abe.midco.net. Sapphire and White's fanzine is accepting submissions at luckystar@abe.midco.net. All forms of material can be submitted; format-wise if you use Word Perfect please use Notepad. Fan fiction, book reviews and movie reviews are greatly appreciated.

Collegium News:

We have individual handouts for aspiring Heralds, Healers, Bards, Blues, Mercenaries, Tayledras, Shin'a'in, and White Winds Sorcerers/Sorceresses and instructions on how to work for Herald-Mage status if you are already a Herald or for a Kal'enedral if you are already a Shin'a'in. You can find these handouts online at <http://www.dragonlordsnet.com/qohandouts.htm>.

All personae materials should be submitted by e-mail to queensownnewsletter@gmail.com

- We do not have any persona to announce this month however we know of several personas in process.

We have some personae who have not been formally announced yet. Is yours one of them? Let us know!

If you are a returning member who has recently activated your membership in Queen's Own and we have forgotten to list your welcome message, contact Danya at Shashtah@gmail.com and she'll make sure you are greeted in the next newsletter.

Special Perk! If you have a Facebook account you can join the Secret Room to RP with your persona and to attend the QO RP events. The next QO RP is scheduled for Wednesday, April 22nd at 5:30 PM PST. You are cordially invited! Participation will also get you an entry into our contest!

Lost . . .

One of the challenges running an online club is that people don't always leave a forwarding address when they move <g>. If you are activated on the Persona List and still listed as "missing" below, let me know. I just forgot to delete the "missing" reference in the newsletter. We are missing current e-mail addresses for just about everyone at this point. If you need your email address updated somewhere on the QO site or for the mailing list, let me know.

(Legend@malcor.com still works, but I am switching to Shashtah@gmail.com.)

From Herald Mage Danya:

The one good thing about lockdown is being a professional writer. I'm already something of a hermit—or vampire, depending on my mood. I've finished a novel, and I'm working on the translation of a King Arthur novel from Italian into English. After that I hope to get back to writing my nonfiction book on the Sword in the Stone, which I am co-authoring with John Matthews. I recently finished a nonfiction book called The Roman King Arthur with him, which is now out on the market looking for a publisher. I started reading John's work when I was in high school and he published his first book. We finally met in person when we both worked on Jerry Bruckheimer's 2004 movie, King Arthur. We've attended some academic conferences together, and we're both trying to figure out how to interact with fans and students using virtual communication. (Neither of us is particularly technologically inclined.) His website is at <http://www.hallowquest.org.uk/>. He and his wife Caitlin have published over 150 books and many editions of tarot cards. Check him out; it will be well worth your time.

Have any of you ever met one of your favorite authors? If so, write and tell us about it.

Cookbook Project: As you are reading the Valdemar series, don't forget to take notes about any foods Misty mentions, the book it is in, and the page number so I can find it. Contact me first so we don't duplicate effort. (See more below.)

I hope all of you are doing well and staying safe!

Zhai'helleva,

Danya

Personals:

- We are looking for additional artwork for the Newsletter as I am scraping the bottom of our artwork folder! If you would like to be featured as the artist for a newsletter please send us your work preferably in .jpg, or .gif formats. Preference for Velgarth flavored artwork (Companions, Heralds, Castles, Bards, Healers, Bondbirds, Tayledras, and so on). Please send all submissions to queensownnewsletter@gmail.com. Additional bonus your work will be entered in our January 2021 Prize drawing!
- Cookbook Project! Danya is helping to organize a cookbook project, first portion of this project is to sign up with Danya to which books you would like to look through, since this will help minimize duplication of effort. The information requested after you have signed up for a book is (book name, page #, name of food and description of scene). This project is open to all whom would like to join in, and we are hoping to add more details for this project in our next newsletter. Please send inquiries to Herald Mage Danya (shashtah@gmail.com).
- Waystation Network announcement! Traveling abroad and looking for a bunk to sleep on without having to fumigate your waystation first...? I have a fold-out couch on offer as well as floor space with extra (air) mattresses, available for wandering bards, heralds on circuit or hawkbrothers in search of an ekele (6th floor apartment 😊). So, if you're in the neighbourhood (Leeuwarden area, The Netherlands, ± 2 hours north of Amsterdam by train – less by car) just contact me. Hanna B. Email: hannab@online.nl, Phone: +31(0)58 2665915 / +31 (0)6 25422809. And wouldn't it be nice to have a whole network of Waystations? If more of you are willing to offer spare beds and couches, I'm willing to set up a list to be available through QO.
- Ellen Million Graphics is releasing a new collection of fantasy coloring books for (so-called) grown-ups: Mermaids, dragons, angels, and fantasy horses, oh my! Find these and more at <http://www.ellenmilliongraphics.com/coloringbooks.php>
